IN BRIEF

Step back in time and immerse yourself in history with this remarkable property, believed to have been built around 1300 and originally part of the medieval defenses during the Hundred Years' War. Complete with towers for shooting at the enemy, the property has seen several transformations, including a refortification around 1567 and major renovations by the current owners since 1998.

The main house is a true reflection of its storied past, with original architectural features that transport you straight into a history book. The traditional kitchen, a unique bathroom built into one of the towers, and a grand fireplace in the main reception room are just a few of the historic touches. Solid wood doors and floors add to the charm, while the layout includes a kitchen/sitting room, utility room, and a spacious reception room on the ground floor...

NOTES

DESCRIPTION

The house is a perfect blend of old-world character with potential for modern updates.

The property also offers a charming gite in a separate building—ideal for guests or as a rental opportunity. With a cosy sitting room, two bedrooms, and a bathroom, the gite provides privacy and comfort. There's also an attached outbuilding featuring a large bread oven, cave, and storage room, as well as a hangar for parking cars and an additional tower.

The vast grange, which could serve a variety of purposes—whether for entertainment, storage, or as a venue for parties—adds yet another layer of possibility to this exceptional property.

The property is enclosed by a tall stone wall, providing a sense of privacy and tranquillity, while the central lawn and beautifully planted roses create a peaceful oasis. Beyond the walls, the estate includes woodland that supplies the wood for the wood burner and a large piece of land with fruit trees. The surrounding fields offer stunning views and add to the sense of rural serenity.

Though set in a peaceful countryside location, the property is just a five-minute drive from the charming town of Lezay, where you'll find a weekly market, supermarket, bars, and restaurants.

This is a rare opportunity to own a piece of history, full of character, and brimming with potential for the future.
