DESCRIPTION

OFFER ACCEPTED This grand stone longère situated in the calm of the countryside near the regional town of Loudéac in Cotes d'Armor is beautifully presented, full of natural light and could be your new dream home.

The main house has a large entry with a wide staircase and a beamed ceiling above. On the left is a large country kitchen with views over the garden and an open dining area with a pellet burning stove. Beyond this is a boot room/changing area with worktops and a sink (complete with a separate door to the front facade) and another room (housed within the large metal hangar) that is currently used as kennel. There is another door to allow direct access to the large metal hangar which is large enough for numerous cars, caravans, or camping cars. Back in the house and behind the kitchen is a nicely presented utility room and a downstairs WC with hand basin.

On the other side of the main entry is a large living room with exposed stone walls, substantial exposed wood beams and an impressive stone fireplace with a wood burning stove. This is a wonderful place to sit and relax, cool in the summer, lovely and warm in the winter and has views over the stunning front gardens. This room also has doors to the front and back of the property and also a connecting door through to the adjoining guest annex.
