DESCRIPTION

There is plenty of parking around the village square, as well as on the wide, tree-lined alley in the centre of the village, where the weekly market is held and there are shops, pharmacy, pizzeria and café/bar. One passes under the medieval archway to find this lovely house, which used to be a home and a shop.

There is a lobby with coat-hanging space inside the solid timber front door, and glazed double doors lead into the charming east-facing kitchen/dining area (24.6m²), with cream kitchen units, and the curving staircase in stone, tile and timber leading off it. A large opening in the wall leads to the 24m² living room, with its marble fireplace with woodburning insert, and two large windows facing east. A panelled timber door leads to an ample storeroom.

The staircase is lovely and light, with a rooflight over it, and on the terracotta-tiled first floor are the spacious main bedroom of 18.65m², with a lovely large shower room (6.7m²). A small landing gives access to the second bedroom and shower room, of 14m² and 6.5m² respectively. Both bedrooms are east-facing, and have stripped timber panelled doors.

On the top floor, there is the third bedroom or living room/study (it has a bed settee and is 12.5m²) with two east-facing windows and terracotta floor tiles. There is also a laundry room of 4m² which already has plumbing for a washing-machine but can quickly be transformed into a third bathroom if required; and a hot-water...
