DESCRIPTION

Perched on one of the highest hills in the Périgord Noir, this authentic and lively village offers a discreet charm: stone alleyways, a 12th-century Romanesque church rebuilt after the war and recognized with a "20th Century Architectural Heritage" label, and a "Green Resort" certification.

Just steps away, the "Grotto of 100 Mammoths," open to the public via a small electric train, takes you back 11,000 years in time.

The house offers around 140 m² of living space, plus more than 60 m² of basement and over 45 m² of usable attic space. The whole is situated just a short walk from the village center's amenities, while benefiting from a peaceful and open environment.

On the ground floor, the house is organized around a large 35 m² living room flooded with natural light, featuring solid oak flooring and ceilings nearly 3 meters high. This generous space invites conviviality and lends itself perfectly to opening up into the adjoining 10 m² kitchen. Reconfiguring the layout could create a modern, open-plan living area of over 45 m², while preserving the character of the old. On the same level, a beautiful 20 m² bedroom completes the ground floor, ideal as a master suite or to expand the living room and kitchen.

Upstairs, the landing leads to four comfortable bedrooms, all over 10 m². Here again, the charm of the old is evident thanks to quality parquet floors and ceiling heights of about 2.8 meters. A bathroom with window and a separate WC...
