DESCRIPTION

A privilege in the city centre, the apartments extend the privacy of their interiors to the facade, to savour the sweet days of the South and their light.

With only twelve apartments from 2 to 4 rooms, the residence is focused on light: most enjoy a double exposure and, for some, a triple opening to the city and the sky. The living rooms, often on corners, are bathed in the sun and extend their conviviality into open kitchens. From 3-room apartments, the organisation naturally distributes reception spaces and rooms, maintaining everyone's peace and quiet. In the 4-room apartments, a master suite is distinguished by its private bathroom and storage.

Everywhere, wide bay windows invite you to take to the fresh air on the balconies or loggias.

Refined finishes and contemporary comfort make up a signature of ease and enduring elegance.

NOTES

Here, a curved silhouette is the sign of a discreet presence, recognisable at first glance.

Located on the corner of rues Auguste Gal, Smolett and Malonnière, the residence embraces its layout with a continuous momentum. The curved and fluid horizontal lines are sequenced by the loggias and their screens. The vertical blades play with the light, creating a dynamic rhythm that is both aesthetic and functional, ensuring the privacy of the balconies while allowing natural light to filter through.

In search of harmony, the ochre and beige shades, lifted with brass-coloured fittings, dialogue with the neighbouring facades.

At the basement, two works of art are framed, in tribute to the cultural...
