NOTES

DESCRIPTION

Set within a hamlet of around ten homes, this property enjoys a peaceful setting amidst the rolling countryside of Morbihan. Access is via a winding, no-through country lane.

The 345 m² plot is arranged over terraces: first, there is a private parking area, followed by a charming stone outbuilding of approximately 48 m², perfect for use as a workshop or storage. A traditional paved pathway, flanked by lawns, leads to an expansive gravelled terrace—an inviting space for outdoor dining, garden furniture, and sun loungers.

Step into the house: to the left, a recently fitted kitchen and dining area, thoughtfully designed in keeping with the character of the home; to the right, a cosy lounge with wood-burning stove. Together, the sitting and dining areas offer 50 m² of comfortable, open-plan space. Opposite, there is access to a 10 m² utility room and a stylish modern shower room with walk-in shower, vanity, WC, and heated towel rail (4 m²).

Stairs rise to the first floor, where the landing opens directly onto a second spacious sitting room (32 m²), also benefitting from a wood-burning stove. To the right, a recently refitted shower room beneath the eaves, with similar quality fittings as found on the ground floor. To the left, the first double bedroom (13 m²).

A ladder staircase leads to the top floor, the perfect haven for children, with two attic bedrooms and a mezzanine offering space for a single bed or play area.
