IN BRIEF

Have you ever dreamed of a bolt hole in Brittany to get away from the fast pace of day to day life?

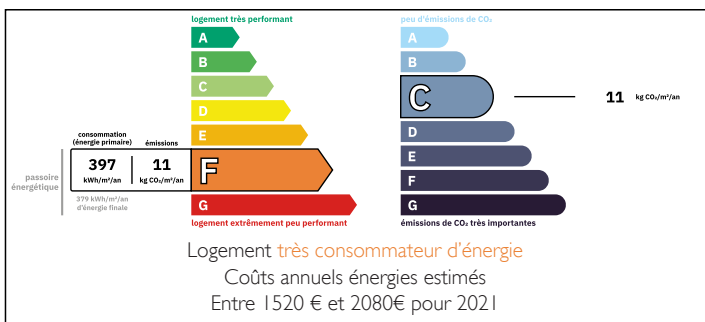

If so this could be the place for you! Charming semi-detached stone house with two bedrooms, located in the peaceful village of Saint-Étienne-du-Gué-de-l'Isle.

This property is off-grid, not connected to mains electricity. It is equipped with solar panels linked to 24V batteries, which supply power and heat the water for the shower.

Set in a tranquil location, the house has a manageable garden of 451 m<sup>2</sup>, making it the perfect lock-up-and-leave holiday home or low-maintenance permanent residence. There is a bakery in the town and the larger town of Loudeac is a 15 minute drive away. Here you will find supermarkets, bars, restaurants, medical centres - everything you may need.

DESCRIPTION

The property itself is a pretty stone house, semi detached with one neighbour. As you enter through the front door there is a huge lounge. There is a concrete floor but the vendor has used chopped up car tyres as insulation under a cover of astro turf. This is easily removed but creates effective insulation. The kitchen has fitted cupboards and a wood fired Rayburn. On the Rayburn there is a back water heater but the current vendor does not use it. The lighting is run on 12V. There is a door from the kitchen to the rear garden.

Stairs lead from the lounge to the first floor. On this floor there is a bedroom, a bathroom with shower and compost toilet. The main area is unfinished and could be made into one or two bedrooms. All the windows in the property are double glazed.
