IN BRIEF

If you're looking for a traditional French home with charm and elegance then this property must be seen. The generous room sizes in this former presbytery are light and airy with large windows to the front and rear, overlooking the garden. Private but not isolated, it offers the perfect combination for a family home or secondary residence.

Partially renovated by the current owners, the property is fully insulated and benefits from a recently installed heat pump and oil fired central heating to keep it warm and comfortable in the cooler months. Most of the hard work is done but there is still scope for you to make your mark and add the finishing touches to this splendid home.

DESCRIPTION

An elegant central entrance hall on the ground floor leads to a generous living room on one side and to a family sized dining room on the other. Through the dining room is the large, independent kitchen and a shower room (still to be completed). Large windows to the front and rear of the building flood the ground floor with light.

From the entrance hallway, an impressive wooden staircase leads up to the first floor central landing with 2 bedrooms to one side and 2 bedrooms and a family bathroom to the other. A further staircase leads to the second floor landing and to a 5th bedroom, presently used as an office/leisure room. A useful attic space on the same level provides space for storage and could be converted to provide further accommodation if required.

Outside, there is a front garden with a magnificent magnolia tree, enclosed by a low stone wall and railings. To the rear of the property is a private, walled garden laid to lawn with mature trees and shrubs. There is also a partially renovated annexe to the rear of the property which could be developed into a practical, usable space.

This substantial property would make a perfect family home, a holiday home or even a small B&B business.
