IN BRIEF

This pretty stone cottage is tucked away in a small hamlet near to St Gilles Du Mene, in Central Brittany (22). The only noise you will hear here is that of the birds and the stream at the bottom of the garden. Avoiding any roads, there is a pathway, through the trees and over a small stream leading to a new bar and small shop that has been opened in the village.

DESCRIPTION

The property is on a quiet road which only leads to a neighbour and a farm further down the track. It is attached to neighbours either side and has a lovely paved courtyard in front of the main door.

As you enter the property there is a hallway with the kitchen to the left that has a woodburner and the current vendors use this as their sitting room too. To the left of the front door is an additional room that is their dining room but could be a bedroom or a separate lounge area. Both rooms have double glazed windows and are bright, sunny rooms, bathed in sunshine.

To the rear of the hallway is a storage room and a WC. Under the stairs there is additional storage too. Upstairs there are two bright bedrooms, a shower room and a large storage cupboard/room.

Next door to the house is a workshop and a log store. Accessed from the road is a garage with electric up and over door. This is big enough for a car but is also where the boiler is for the oil central heating.

The property is well insulated and has internal volets on the windows to shield the rooms from the bright sun. All the windows are double glazed. The fosse conforms to current standards. New roof in 2022.

Leading from the house is a small path to the garden with apple, pear and...
