IN BRIEF

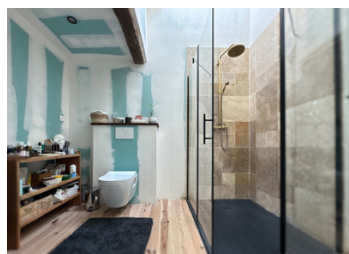

Situated in a peaceful rural setting just 3.5 km from the highly sought-after village of Montcuq, this charming south-facing stone farmhouse and its authentic outbuildings enjoy a beautiful natural environment in the heart of southwest France. Set on 8,450 m² of land, the property features a small stream running through the grounds, creating a tranquil and idyllic atmosphere. Full of original character, the farmhouse retains exposed stone walls and beams, while recent improvements including double glazing, updated electrics and eco-friendly straw insulation provide a comfortable starting point for further renovation. Currently configured with one bedroom, the house is fully habitable and presents exciting potential to extend the living space and restore the remaining stone outbuildings, including a barn, former pigeonier and workshops.
