IN BRIEF

Originally occupied by a 15th century french nobleman, this is a very special property. Restored by the current owners using traditional materials, it retains its essential character as a property dating from the late middle ages whilst also serving as a very practical and comfortable home.

Inside, the rooms are spacious and airy with a real sense of grandeur with some very high ceilings and exposed beams. Outside, the fully-enclosed garden is a good size but manageable with a variety of outbuildings including a garage, workshop and bakehouse - all carefully maintained by the current owners.

Day-to-day amenities (bakeries, supermarkets & restaurants) are within easy reach at nearby Gourgé and Saint-Loup-Sur-Thouet, both popular with visitors. For a broader range of shops and services, Parthenay is 20 minutes away and the trip to Poitiers
