DESCRIPTION

A historic property steeped in history and charm – just a stone's throw from the bay of Saint-Michel-en-Grève

Immerse yourself in the authenticity of Breton heritage with this 17th-century farmhouse, partially renovated in 2005 and 2019, offering 96m² of living space on a 7,620m² plot, plus an 80m² stone outbuilding on two levels (40m² of floor space) in need of renovation. Perfect for lovers of old stonework and traditional timber framing, with a roof of slate and English tiles.

The 7,620 m² garden has the potential to become a true haven of peace, with its landscaped pond, mature trees and a working well.

The property comprises

- Upstairs: Two bedrooms measuring 22 and 26m² respectively, and a bathroom with a toilet. In need of refurbishment.

- on the ground floor: a living room with a fireplace (excellent draught and insulated firebox), extending into a semi-open-plan kitchen, totalling 34m²; a 25m² lounge, fitted with a wood pellet boiler for the central heating system; a utility area; and a 7m² annexe suitable for conversion.

You'll appreciate the traditional ochre-coloured terracotta floor tiles.

The high-performance wood pellet stove central heating system, installed in 2017, with cast-iron radiators, combines modern comfort with traditional charm.

Sewage system connected to the mains.

Double-glazed wooden windows fitted in 2018–2019 on the ground floor.

Single-glazed skylights in the bedrooms.

Electric water heater.

The outbuilding, which could be converted into a home or a workshop, features a roof structure in good condition, an English-style tiled roof, a dry-stone gable and a remarkable central beam.
