IN BRIEF

This charming early 19th-century château, built by a general from the Napoleonic era, is situated in Saint-Ambroix in the Gard, near Provence and the Ardèche.

The property offers approximately 370 m² of living space, comprising 12 rooms, including 9 bedrooms and 5 bathrooms, spread over three floors. The walled grounds, covering 4.6 hectares, feature a beautiful park with centuries-old trees, a bamboo garden, a former orchard and direct access to the River Cèze.

Further highlights include the indoor swimming pool beneath a conservatory and the impressive orangery of approximately 200 m², ideal for hosting events or a potential tourism project. Renovations were carried out in 2022, including double-glazed wooden windows and a biogas boiler.

DESCRIPTION

EXCLUSIVE HISTORIC CASTLE IN SOUTHERN FRANCE

An exceptional 4.6-hectare estate on the banks of the Cèze

Some properties make a lasting impression. Others tell a story.

In the sun-drenched countryside of the Gard, near Provence and the Ardèche, this remarkable historic château dating from the early 19th century awaits a new owner. Built by a general from the Napoleonic era, this elegant residence exudes history, authenticity and timeless grandeur.

Tucked away behind the walls of a private estate spanning no less than 4.6 hectares, an exceptional living environment unfolds, where centuries-old trees, a romantic orchard, a lush bamboo garden and the banks of the River Cèze combine to form an idyllic setting.

With approximately 370 m² of living space, 9 bedrooms, 5 bathrooms, an indoor swimming pool and an impressive orangery of approximately 200 m², this property offers a rare combination of historic charm, space and versatility. Timeless elegance and authentic materials

Behind the characterful façade lies a warm and harmonious interior, spread over three storeys. The spacious central reception hall, measuring approximately 35 m², forms the heart of the castle and offers a charming view through to the terraces and the leafy park.

The drawing rooms, dining room and kitchen flow seamlessly into one another, inviting you to enjoy long dinners, cosy evenings by the fireside and unforgettable moments with family and friends.
